

You are in the army now

(episode 7)

TT agenda

- crime time table
  - with special respect to
    - reservation of conscience
    - defending the fatherland
    - civilized war forms
    - civilized war enemies
    - civilized war weapons

Soldiers, before lunch we analysed the potential general enemy structure in civilized suicide wars. This is who can be counted as “government” in general and in concrete as our own government in terms of international people law which considers governments as the potential perpetrator of this mysterious crime of aggression.

The general structure looks like in the following table:

civilized war enemy (factual “government” in sense of international people law)
civil origin			cleric
passive enemy	active enemy	qualified active enemy	qualified hyperactive enemy	high qualified hyperactive enemy
political class of commons (proud party book owners)	official upper state power classes (legislative judicative administrative)	inofficial but established permanent governments (state secretaries/ UN accredited diplomats and ambassadors)	priests and higher christian clerics	celibates (not only) roman catholic clerics)

We found that a diligent analyses of every administrative sector from federal ministry over state ministries down to local authorities is necessary to identify the enemy fully but that this would go beyond the scope of a first initial operation. We therefore agreed on the following initial operation targets which are all head organs of the four active enemy types plus some key employees of a few very sensitive state agencies. These are:

All constitution organs of Bund and Länder plus general prosecutors of Bund and Länder plus three Bund secret service presidents and probably sixteen Länder presidents plus propaganda key executives of ARD ZDF and representatively of private (print) press.

Furthermore we found that at least one special administration sector needs to be analysed diligently before such an initial compact operation is carried out which is police the only armed people function next to our own. Nobody else would be able to offer resistance.

The last enemy group and targets of the initial operation then are most probably the german clerics (what we put so far only still under reservation of the analysis results regarding the new civilized war dimension of invisibility).

So these are the next topics in the contexts of enemy analysis and initial operation targets:

- police (this afternoon)
- cleric (tomorrow)

police

I am confident that Schutzpolizei (uniformed police), my grandmother (*1901) used to refer to them friendly and with confidence as Schupo (probably in demarcation to (Ge)Stapo), are in the same dilemma in which we are. Uniformed police want to protect the population. That is why young people choose to become soldier or police. Uniformed police and maybe some special units (GSG9 for example) are competent for crime prevention.

Then there are the criminal investigation offices (BKA/LKA) and departments (commissariats under local police presidents) who are competent for the clearing up of committed crimes. Generally I am also confident that they want to protect the people too.

However, next to uniformed and criminal investigative police exist another police type which is Geheimpolizei, secret police, which are all different secret services.

Both police types are jointly referred to as security authorities. Security authorities are organised under the federal and state homeland (police, Verfassungsschutz, federal office for information security) mystery (BND) and war (MAD) ministries. Except for police all of them secret services (without legal police powers). Although they are organised under the same ministries and commonly referred to as security authorities, police with police powers on the one hand and secret police which are secret services without such powers on the other hand differ completely from each other.

Of the security authorities can only police, armed due to their legal police powers, offer physical resistance. However, they are in the same dilemma in which we are and want to protect the population (hate most different orders not only like to collect school skipping pupils at the airports but are urged systematically to execute them nevertheless) unlike their complement secret security authorities who definitely want and do protect the state only (in enemy of the fatherland terms the here explained government).

We generally do not regard open police forces as enemy. (Exceptions may apply.) We are about to terminate german secret service activities close their premises and arrest their upper staffs.

The organisational near of police and secret service is nevertheless a security concern more than ever regarding the lack of police powers of secret police. Secret police hold themselves for competent for the warding off extremist and terror threats but have no legal police powers which is first of all (under reservation of legal authorization grounds) to cut essential personal basic rights back. So they need cooperation with open police. Once clear separate competences merge. And in fact they have founded their joint counter terrorism center (Gemeinsames Terrorismusabwehrzentrum) with 160 specialists from both police and all (including MAD and BND) other german secret security authorities.

Geheimpolizei become salonfähig again.

Gestapo (Verfassungsschutz) even may refuse to answer questions of the parliamentary control commission rather when than if they only claim that this would cause a danger to public safety why answering the question would violate public interests (NSU case for example) and nobody in Germany wonders. Questions of parliamentary commissions are per definitionem in public interest, in this case for example why Verfassungsschutz (in East Germany formerly called Staatssicherheit) observed every of the ten murders from very near but did not bother to interfere, and they may refuse to answer them in the same public interest! Believers do not protest not even wonder. Turkish community (which belongs to the german population like the identifiable group of wheel chair drivers in Germany) left alone. Gestapo back, Stasi salonfähig, (as) Verfassungsschutz established.

If this Terrorabwehrzentrum knew what we are talking about in our TTs they might very well consider us as such an extremist threat that they have to ward off. Maybe they even know. MAD belongs to them spying on us! However, too extreme for them to ward it off ...

Time to get police out of their influence and the secret service bastards arrested. Single police officers or units, however, who might feel obliged to defend them would need to be regarded as enemy too (applied exception above).

How do we deal with this concrete and potential challenge?

Major, ... perhaps ... the opening (of the operation) should be arresting the (political and permanent) governments first. Then we are the new head command of all security authorities what must be undoubtable to them as well as to everybody else. Therefore I would waive dress uniform for this initial move and roll in with our leopards. Park two of them in front of mystery homeland and defence in Berlin, as well as in front of sixteen state chancelleries and state homelands, let some tigers (without ha) circle over Berlin Düsseldorf Munich Hamburg Frankfurt plus some airbus helicopters of the police squadron Cologne over the cathedral ... after we have talked to police before already. They know that we are generally not regarding them as enemy. This is honest. So they can relaxed keep calm. However, if some of them cannot relax because they do not feel committed to the protection of the population, they might think about a try to offer some physical resistance in the face of our military parade.

Another soldier: Great idea! This would cover the qualified active enemy in the opening move of the operation. Let's say from six to ten in the morning. Our afternoon units competent for the active enemies in parliaments can then wear their dress uniforms performing the next operational steps, can't they?!

--- --- --- general applause --- --- ---

Nothing to add, soldiers! For now. Tomorrow we go on with the phenomenon of mysterious invisibility ...

Enjoy your diner apples and have a good evening!

End of episode